Human Capital Cost Management HC2M

With reductions in budget, changes in mission, fast-paced technological changes, and the exodus of baby boomers looming ahead, it is increasingly important to target the right people and the right skills in the appropriate numbers for effective execution of your strategic plan, goals, and objectives. In short, you need to operate with the savvy of a commercial business, while retaining a government culture. Single Source has the solutions to help you "think like business".

One of the concerns of running a business is the cost and management of human capital. Single Source is highly experienced in helping government organizations capture the full cost of each full time equivalent (FTE). Full cost accounting includes not only direct labor, but also service pool costs, travel, facilities and utilities sharing, cost of hardware, shared software, grounds maintenance, headquarters contributory costs, education and a host of other indirect costs. We have decades of experience and a proven methodology, along with state of the art tools to help you target the most appropriate skills and staying within your budget.
